ROOSEVELT ON HOW TO MANAGE TRUSTS

He Would Have Government Given Supervision of Their Affairs.

New York, June 1.—Theodore Roosevelt has an article on "The Standard Oil Decision—And After, in the Outlook. After stating that the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Standard Oil case has brought out many proposals for altering or amending the anti-trust act, he says:

"Actual experience with the anti-trust law extending over many years has shown that it does not and cannot by any possibility be made to do what the extreme antagonists of corporations desire, or assert that they desire. As construed by the Supreme Court, the anti-trust law accomplishes a certain amount of good, and it has been a good thing to obtain the decision that has been obtained against the Standard Oil Company. But as a means of effectually grappling on behalf of the whole people with the problem created by what are commonly called trusts—that is, of enormous combinations of corporate capital engaged in interstate business—the anti-trust law is radically and vitally defective, and any effort to strengthen it would be worse than futile, and would result only in prolonging the time during which the corporations will escape control of the kind demanded in the interests of the people. What is urgently needed is the enactment of drastic and far-reaching legislation, which shall put the great interstate business corporations of the type of the Standard Oil Company, the Sugar Trust, the Steel Trust, and the like, at least as completely under the control and regulation of the government in each and every respect as the interstate railways are now put. To break up the Standard Oil Company, as the recent decision has broken it up, does a certain amount of good, but it does not do anything like the amount of good that would be achieved from the standpoint of the public if the proper governmental body were given the same supervision and control over it as the Interstate Commerce Commission has established over certain of the railroads of the country. Our prime object must be to have the observation by concerted administration action and not by necessarily intermittent law suits."

GOLD HOLDINGS AT HIGH WATER MARK

Treasury Has $1,815,000,000 in Coin and Bullion Piled Up in Vaults.

Washington, June 1.—The Treasury made a much better showing for May than April, and its condition as compared with a month ago is materially strengthened. The piling up of gold coin and bullion in the vaults continues steadily. A little more than $1,815,000,000 was there to-day—the high-water mark for the Treasury's gold holdings. The government's finances begin a new month's business on the basis of a surplus. It is small—less than $1,000,000—but a surplus is shown in spite of nearly $3,000,000 spent from the cash drawer for the payment of the canal bills. Under ordinary circumstances a surplus of nearly $5,000,000 would be shown.

May's receipts from all sources exceeded $61,000,000, and beat April by a round $10,000,000. Expenditures, however, were held down to about $56,000,000, about $5,000,000 greater than last month.

The variance in those two items, however, had little effect on the general fund. It stood to-day at $86,400,000, about $1,000,000 better than a month ago, but the working balance shows a loss of approximately $3,000,000 by dropping off to $25,000,000.
